Key Stage 1: The Place of Folk Dance in the Primary Physical Education Curriculum

This document gives an indication of how English folk dance can help teachers enhance and deliver aspects of the National Curriculum for PE in England at Key Stage 1 (ages 5 – 7) and suggests a range of supporting resources created by folk artist-educators.

This document refers to English folk dance which comprises social folk dancing: (ceilidh / country / barn dancing); and performance dance: (morris dancing; clog / step dance; maypole dancing; sword dancing - rapper sword and longsword).

There are many similarities with folk dancing from the rest of Britain and around the world.

| Social folk danceceilidh / country / barn dance | • Social folk dances use various combinations of skipping, hopping and a running step (gentle, rhythmical jog) as ways of travelling and changing direction. A gallop step can be used to travel sideways and requires the co-ordination of jumping (usually face to face holding hands with a partner) whilst travelling sideways in time with the music.
• Hand movements – Hand movements add an additional layer of co-ordination skills to the dances. For example, right | Performance danceMorris dancing; clog / step dance; maypole dancing, sword dancing |

• Most performance styles of folk dance use combinations of a running step, skipping, hopping and jumping as ways of travelling and changing direction.
• Clog dance requires balance and co-ordination due to the rounded sole of the clog. Developing the ability to transfer the weight from one foot to the other also supports these elements.
• Morris dance requires co-ordination of the hands and feet simultaneously and left hand turns with a partner, clapping sequences, holding hands in the air to create arches for others to dance under.

| Team Games | Social folk dancing is non-competitive but requires elements of working together in pairs and larger groups or ‘sets’. These sets take place in a variety of forms such as circles, squares and long lines. Team working is essential to ensure the dances are executed correctly. | Performance styles of folk dance require teamwork and collaboration. Morris dances are generally performed in groups (‘sides’) Clog dance can be performed as a team with simple directional choreography. Maypole dancing requires team working skills such as turn taking to achieve patterns with the ribbons. Longsword and rapper sword dances are performed in teams of 5 or 6. Teamwork is vital as the dancers are connected by holding the ‘swords’, letting go of the swords would mean the ‘figure’ could not work. |
| Dances Using Simple Movement Patterns | Social folk dances are composed of simple building blocks of movements and patterns. These patterns can be combined with increasing complexity as children progress. | Performance styles usually comprise a series of steps which can be ordered/developed into a routine. There is opportunity for simple choreography in all performance folk dance styles. |
